An Important Ruling.

The trial at Greenview last week of W. H. Whitson, a wealthy farmer, for killing his tenant, Orlando B. Latham, a hotel keeper at the village of Dunmore, in 1885, was of much interest, not only from its sensational surroundings, but from the remarkable instructions given by Judge Grace to the jury.

Latham suspected his landlord of improper intimacy with his wife, who is a remarkably handsome woman and the mother of one little girl. On the night of October 5 Latham had his suspicions aroused by some indications of an assignation and taking his pistol, went round to the rear of his premises just as Whitson was retreating. He fired two shots, but missed, Whitson returning the fire with fatal effect. Latham gasped out, "O, Whit, you have killed me," but I did not intend to hurt you," and expired. On a trial Whitson tried to prove an alibi. J. B. Garnett, the Commonwealth's attorney, made a powerful argument, entangling Whitson in a web of circumstantial evidence with masterly skill.

Judge Grace instructed the jury in the usual manner as to the law of self-defense and then added this proviso:

"Provided, however, that if the jury believe from the evidence that at the time and on the occasion of the killing of Latham, the said Whitson was then and there wrongfully and unlawfully about the premises of the said Latham, for the purpose of soliciting criminal intercourse with Ellen D. Latham, wife of the deceased, then in that event he could not avail himself of the right of self-defense, although the jury may believe that his life was in danger at the hands of said Latham; and the killing of said Latham by Whitson under the circumstances would be either murder or manslaughter, depending upon the fact whether the killing was done with malice aforethought or in sudden heat and passion, as described in the instructions of the court."

The important law is here set forth that the seducer who slays a person assaulting him to protect the sanctity of his home is on the same plane with the burglar who slays the man who is trying to protect his property. The jury failed to agree and the case was continued.

The Nisbet Affair.

There is still more or less mystery about the sudden departure of Dr. W. K. Nisbet last week. Mrs. Nisbet does not know where he is now, as nothing has been heard from him since his first letter. His father-in-law, Mr. O. S. Brown, cannot understand his conduct. He says he would have given the young people a home and set them up to housekeeping if they had only intimated that they wanted to leave his house. Public opinion is against Dr. Nisbet and the expression is general that he has acted very badly.

Mr. H. P. Rives will be a Democratic candidate for county surveyor.

DREAM OF NEWS.

Horseflesh Burned in Clarksville. A Clarksville special to the Nashville American says: "James P. Gill's livery stable in this city caught fire Friday night about 9:30 o'clock and was burned to the ground. Fifteen head of horses were destroyed. Nearly all of the animals were fine roadsters, and among their number was the famous racer, Ingleswood. Quite a number of vehicles were also burned. The stable was a brick building, 100 feet in length by fifty in width and two stories high. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have started in the loft. The loss will be between $30,000 and $40,000, with no insurance. Ingleswood was valued at $5,000 and was owned by Maynard & Gill."

The fine three-year-old colt, "Withers," recently sold to Capt. Herndon by Mr. R. B. Withers, of this city, for $1,500, was also burned. Capt. Herndon had refused $2,500 for the colt.

Pretty Bouquets.

The bouquet display at Konetzka & Durando's jewelry store Friday and Saturday was quite a success, considering the lateness of the chrysanthemum season and the inclemency of the weather. There were 18 competitors for the prizes, which were awarded at 3 p. m. Saturday. The ladies selected as judges were Mrs. J. W. Rust, Mrs. A. G. Bush, Mrs. F. L. Ellis and Mrs. J. P. Campbell. The three prizes were awarded as follows:

1st.—pair solid gold earrings, Mrs. Mary Payne.
2nd.—Solid gold lace pin, Mrs. S. H. Harrison.
3rd.—pair solid gold cuff buttons, Mrs. H. C. Gant.

The bouquets were then sold at auction and brought about $4, which was given to the Christian Women's Charity Association.

The Peerless Amateurs.

The minstrel show to take place on the 29th we think is going to be the home show of the season. The mere fact of Miss Perry's being at the head of it is sufficient guaranty. The "boys" are trying hard to give the people of Hopkinsville their money's worth and if practice can make perfect their acting will be perfect. Do not fail to come and bring $50, the price of admission. New songs will be introduced and rendered by our best talent. Among the songs will be Mr. Rudolph Steinhagen's new song entitled "The Florida Gator," sung by him.

Attempted Burglary.

About 1 o'clock Sunday morning an attempt was made to burglarize the residence of Mr. J. F. Gordon. The noise made in prizing the window open waked Mr. Gordon, who arising fired through the window but missed the burglar. About two hours later Mr. Gordon was again aroused by a noise at the front door. Arising, he opened the door just in time to hear the would-be-burglar leave the premises hurriedly. This time he was unable to get a shot at him and he made good his escape.

A New Policeman.

Officer O. A. West, who came from Crofton last January to take a position on the police force, resigned Friday and will return to that place to live. Chief Campbell has appointed H. H. Goley to the vacancy, until the Council meets. Mr. Goley has had some service as a special policeman and is capable of making a good and efficient officer.

Lost a Leg.

A freight brakeman named Neff fell under the cars at Mannington Saturday night last and his left leg was so badly crushed that it had to be amputated just below the knee.

AFTER THE POST OFFICE.

Mrs. Nat Wright Goes to Washington on a Matter of Business.

The Courier-Journal of Friday, contained the following article:

"Mrs. Nat Wright, of Hopkinsville, passed through this city yesterday on her way home from Washington, where she went on a mission which will be a surprise to all her friends. Without saying anything of her intentions, Mrs. Wright very quietly left Hopkinsville two weeks ago ostensibly on a pleasure trip, but instead, she proceeded to Washington, where she called upon President Harrison and Postmaster General Wamamaker, and candidly asked them for the office of Postmaster at Hopkinsville."

Her application was entirely formal, but it is said she was given a great deal of encouragement, and while Mrs. Wright does not say that she was promised the office, she seems confident that she has the place in her grasp. Mr. Wamamaker, she says, after hearing her verbal application, told her to go at once back to Kentucky and write her application, including with it the endorsements which she said she could readily get. She left for her home yesterday afternoon, and it is her intention to return to Washington in a few days, when she expects to bring her commission back with her.

Mrs. Wright is a very estimable lady, and is the wife of Mr. Nat Wright, formerly an active Republican in Christian county, but now a confirmed invalid at Hopkinsville."

This was the first intimation had of Mrs. Wright's candidacy for the Hopkinsville postoffice. It has been for some time regarded as an assured fact that Maj. Breathitt would get the place when Mr. McKee's commission expires six or seven months hence, and the fact that there was a new candidate in the field, with energy enough to beard the head of the Department in his den, was a surprise to Maj. Breathitt as well as the public.
